How hair loss happens

What's hair loss all about then? We know it can be hard to get a full picture of what's going on, so we'll tell it to you straight. Here's the science behind why guys lose their hair, how our products work, and what you can expect from treatment.

Male pattern hair loss is a hereditary condition that affects two thirds of guys by age 35. Men who inherit this trait have a genetic sensitivity to a byproduct of testosterone called dihydrotestosterone (DHT) which slows and halts the normal hair growth cycle. DHT builds up around follicles, shrinking them over time and causing hair strands to thin, shorten, then eventually fall out – and not grow back, as they normally would.

The science behind Sons

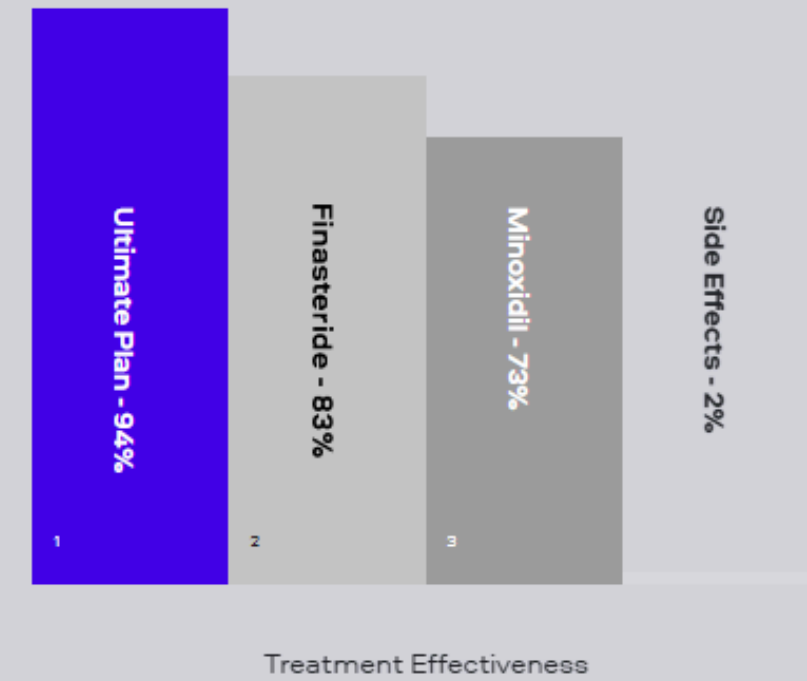

Unlike other men's health brands, we're fully-licensed experts in the only two proven treatments for men's hair loss. In an age of widespread misinformation on social media, hundreds of peer-reviewed studies have proven the effectiveness of our treatments for helping men take on hair loss and regrow their confidence.

How hair loss treatments work

Get started

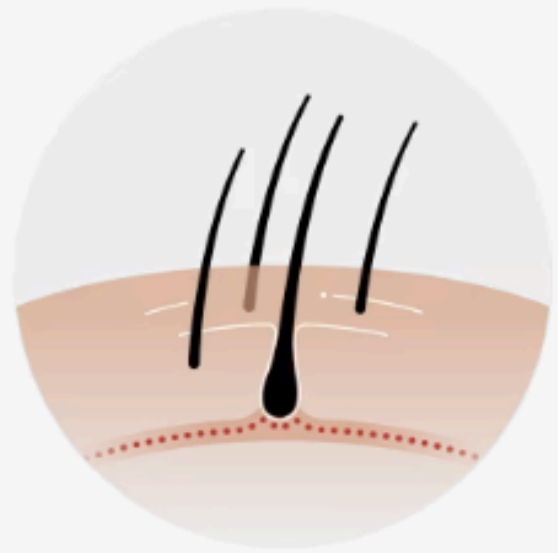

See progress in as little as 3-6 months.*

Prevent hair loss

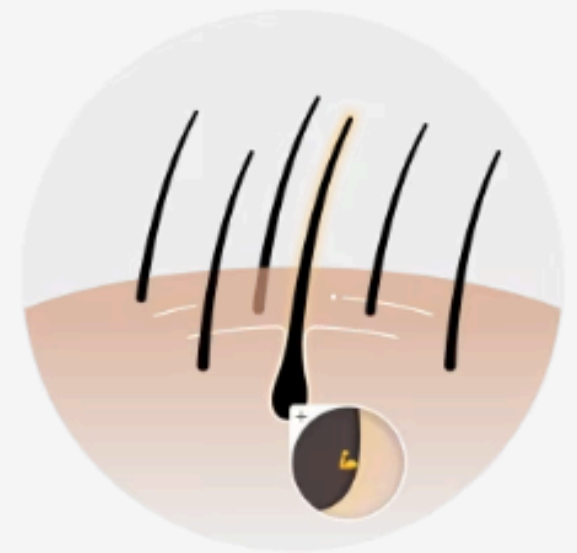

Finasteride works by blocking an enzyme that converts testosterone into DHT, a hormone that can weaken hair follicles. It has been shown to help regrow hair in 3-6 months.

Promote regrowth

Minoxidil increases blood flow to hair follicles to kickstart regrowth. It extends the active growth phase while shortening the resting phase of the hair growth cycle.

Better together

Recent studies show Finasteride gives better results when paired with minoxidil.

*Results vary. Based on studies on recent studies of licensed finasteride and minoxidil treatments.

animalambition28 I have never been one to write a bad review about an experience with a company, but the customer service that I have received from Hims has been horrible. I am a current customer who is having bad side effects with the finasteride/minoxidil chewable. I have been trying for nearly 7 days (since July 17th) to reach out to my provider on Hims multiple times to possibly switch my medication and have heard nothing back. I reached out to Hims customer support to let them know that my provider does not reach back out to me, and I had a Nurse Practitioner reach out to me about my issue on July 21st. I responded back to her, and have not heard anything since. So any new customers, please keep this in mind before thinking about trying Hims.

DHT blockers – or 5 α -Reductase inhibitors, as they are more accurately known – are medicines that prevent your body from producing as much of that male sex hormone, dihydrotestosterone. By reducing the amount of DHT in your system, DHT blockers prevent hair loss – and, in some cases, encourage hair regrowth. While many medicines claim to be DHT blockers, there is only one that is truly effective. That's Finasteride.
